~~Integration And Disintegration In European~~

What is commonly missing from most insights on differentiated integration or disintegration is an acknowledgment that the rules or policy areas that scholars wish to push on the outer circle of European cooperation either prevent States from inflicting harm on one another or encapsulate the need to act in common in order to solve those problems that may only be (better) solved on the international plane. 63 It is not clear why it is that areas such as migration or elements of security and ...

Our two scenarios both contain elements of truth and confirm that integration and disintegration may occur simultaneously. It is hard to predict which will predominate in the medium-term. Any complacency about the EU's performance would be out of place, with many Europeans still suffering, economic prospects muted, unresolved issues remaining, and Eurosceptics casting around for their best line of attack.

Case studies are used to illustrate the topic of integration and disintegration in the EU. The first part of the module deals with the historical development of the EU as well as with core theories of European integration and critically challenges them. The second part focuses on the empirical analysis of chosen cases of integration and disintegration. Intended Learning Outcomes (ILOs) ILO: Module-specific skills. On successfully completing the module you will be able to...

The disintegration of the EU is unpredictable—so is integration, yet more studied—but this should not temper the efforts towards theorizing it. In fact, the work developed to date provides valuable insights into how (and how not to) the scholarship may explain disintegration (Webber, 2014; Vollaard, 2018; Jones, 2018).

~~European Disintegration: What is it? - forward looking ...~~

Differentiation is becoming an increasingly salient feature of European integration. The multifaceted European crisis and the subsequent Brexit vote (paving the way for a ground-breaking case of differentiated disintegration) have led scholars and practitioners to think about the consequences of differentiated integration.

Abstract. This symposium assesses the trajectory of European Union (EU) environmental policy and integration in light of the rising pressure for policy dismantling and disintegration. This introductory article discusses the literature and the mixed evidence of EU environmental policy dismantling. Building on the three symposium articles, we investigate the role of the European Commission in this process, evaluating its role as a general 'motor of integration' and more specifically as an ...

This book theoretically examines differentiated integration and disintegration, focuses on how this process affects key policy areas, norms and institutions of the EU, and analyses how the process of Brexit is perceived by and impacts on third countries as well as other organizations of regional integration in a comparative perspective.

~~Differentiated Integration and Disintegration in a Post ...~~

From its inception in the European Coal and Steel Community of 1951, institutional integration in Europe has always been multiply motivated. On the one hand, for some, it has been animated by the ideals of an "ever closer union" culminating in the European polity envisioned by its founders, Jean Monnet, Robert Schuman, and Alcide De Gasperi.

Select... Additional cross-border attacks in Europe could increase pressure on governments to abolish, or at least suspend, the Continent's passport-free Schengen area. Unemployment levels will continue to increase in Southern Europe in the coming months, opening the door to more anti-government protests. Disputes between harder-hit southern states and the rest of the Continent will thwart the EU's ability to increase financial integration among its members and within its currency zone.

~~European Disintegration | Stratfor Worldview~~

Historically, there are several examples of disintegration – tentatively conceived as withdrawal from (some form of) membership – that have occurred throughout the history of European integration: Algeria (1962), Greenland (1985) and Saint Barthélemy (2012) have departed from the European Community/Union.
